Debutantes Work for Fashion Show

By Mildred Jaklon.

O many events are listed on so-ciety's calendar for the week that the popular and fashionable must yearn for tenleague boots with which to get from one affair to the next. And this early state of activity is but an indication of the deluge that is to come when the so-called season reaches the height of its hectic pace.

Many of the town's smartest young maids and matrons are occupied with preparations for St. Luke's benefit fashion show, which will take place Tuesday afternoon and evening in the Stevens hotel ballroom. Mrs. Clifford Rodman has enlisted the young married women and Miss Barbara King has been gathering a group of debutantes who are to appear as manne-

These fair ones are now learning to trip down a runway in the approved manner of models who display the wares of the French couturiers. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Mrs. John L. Cochran, Mrs. E. I. Cudahy. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland are members of the committee in charge.

* * Debs to Model.

Among the debutantes who will appear in the glittering parade will be Miss King, Miss Dorothy Ranney, Miss Jean Stevens, Miss Mary Eliza beth Johnson, Miss Betty Borden, Miss Jean Purcell, Miss Jeannette Peterkin, Miss Kathleen Whitcomb, Miss Letitia Channon, Miss Bertha Palmer, Miss Charlotte Picher, Miss Isabel Greenlee, Miss Louise Badgerow, and also Miss Edwina Litsinger and Miss Katherine Thorne, who made their debuts a year or so ago.

Many of the best looking manne-quins will model for the same shops whose frocks they exhibited last year. Mrs. Russell Kelley, Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman, Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, Mrs. Julius Benedict, and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham are among those who will "repeat."

An imposing list of boxholders has been announced by Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, who is in charge of the sale of tickets, and it is hoped that the proceeds will soar above the $33,-000 netted by last year's show.

My dear Mrs. Ryerson:-

The Fashion Show of 1928 will be held on Tuesday October 23rd, at the Stevens, following very closely the plan of 1927. We hope to make this show even a greater success than the one last year and need your full cooperation.

We are enclosing printed sheet giving full details of prices for exhibitors.

The tickets will be $3.50 for single admission in the afternoon including tea, and $15 a couple in the evening including dinner. The price of an afternoon box seating six including tea will be $50 and for an evening box seating six including dinner $100.

Arrangements have been made with the Orchestra to play in the foyer outside the Ballroom immediately after the evening show so that dancing may start promptly. This will be a special talking feature in the sale of tickets to the dancing set.

Advertising rates are as follows:

1 page 4½ x 7½.....$100. 4½ x 3-3/4..... 60. 2½ x 3-3/4....

Mrs. Glore and Mrs. Faurot are Chairmen of Program Advertising. They have taken this difficult piece of work only on condition that they will receive real help from the Board.

It was decided at the Board Meeting that each member, except the Chairmen of Committees, is to be responsible for one page of advertising. We feel that advertisements will be easy to procure this year on account of the success of last year.

Board Members will not be asked to solicit exhibitors except in a few cases where they have special influence because, due to the success of the 1927 show, the shops are coming in very well.

We wish to have a Committee meeting as early as possible. If you are out of town, will you please advise me promptly when you expect to return?

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Jr., Marion, Mass.

Sincerely yours,

Women of St. Luke's - Hospital Lay Plans for Fall Style Show

BY THALIA -

Well, I'm sure I don't know what a society editor is to write about next fall if she has to dispense all of the autumn news now. The makers of news insist on being so forehanded about their plans. 'The woman's board of St. Luke's hospital has said "fen dibs" on Tuesday, October 23, and the Stevens hotel for a repetition of the highly successful fashion show they engineered last year. They made all the preliminary plans at a meeting at the Casino on Monday, with Mrs. John W. Gary, the president, presiding. The show will be almost precisely like the former one, with an afternoon and evening showing and all of the prettiest of the young women acting as models. There's no reason why they should change it, because, if I'm not mistaken, the St. Luke's affair brought in more for its beneficiaries than almost any of the other big benefits of the winter.

Mrs. Frank Hibbard and Mrs. Hathaway Watson are to be co-chairmen of the show, and others who have accepted jobs and are planning to get right to work are Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore, in charge of the advertising and programs; Mrs. William H. Mitchell, box chairman; Mrs. Clifford Rodman, in charge of mannequins; Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, tickets; Mrs. A. E. Bendelari, flowers; Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, tea and supper; Mrs. Harold Eldridge, properties, and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., publicity. The preparatory work will continue all through the summer.

Publicity—Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr.

The preparatory work will continue during the summer. Boxes are already being reserved and the committee is looking forward to another big success financially as well as socially. THE most amazing thing to me is the efficient and forehanded way in which practically all the plans for next winter have been, in present slang parlance, washed up. Before Mrs. John W. Gary sailed for Europe, she gave a luncheon at the Casino for the committee that has been appointed to take care of the society fashion show given by the Women's Board of St. Luke's Hospital, and of which she is chairman, and the entire arrangements were formulated. Mrs. Hathaway Watson and Mrs. Frank Hibbard are to be chairmen of the show, Mrs. Henry Faurot, Jr., and Mrs. Charles F. Glore have been deputed to tend to the advertising and programs (one of the biggest and most remunerative parts of the event, by the way), Mrs. William H. Mitchell, the boxes, Mrs. Clifford Rodman, the mannequins, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, the tickets, Mrs. Archer E. Bendelari, the flowers, Mrs.

Chauncey B. Borland, the tea and supper, Mrs. Harold Eldridge and Mrs. George A. Ranney, the properties, and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Jr., the publicity. The show is to be practically the same as last year's eminently successful one. It is set for October 23, at the Stevens, and is to be in the afternoon and evening. The prettiest society maids and matrons are to be selected to model. You know, the style show is really the ideal charitable benefit, because the proceeds actually pour in from all sides and the St. Luke's group, who really didn't do so awfully well with the few annual balls they gave, are cashing in on it beautifully. All the modistes and milliners, and jewelers, and shoeries and furriers and whatnot pay like everything to have their wares exhibited, and then the committee cannily collects from those who want to see, besides.

Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, in charge of the sale of tickets for the St. Luke's Fashion show, which is to be held the afternoon and evening of Oct. 23 at the Stevens hotel, has opened up an office in the Marshall Field Men's building, room 1520, 'phone State 8349. "Bigger and better," is the watchword for the Fashion show.

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., called this desk today to advise of the progress made thus far. There had been a meeting of the committee heads and gratification over the reports was general. The advance sale of boxes has exceeded all expectations, the exhibits are to be increased in size and in number, and altogether it looks as though the forthcoming show would surpass even last year's notable success.

"Fifty-three boxes already have been sold for the evening and twenty-one for the afternoon show," stated Mrs. Ryerson, quoting from Mrs. W. H. Mitchell's report. Mrs. Mitchell is in charge of boxes.

Two important new exhibitors were reported by Mrs. Pettit Watson already to have joined the show. They are the Blackstone Shop and Carson, Pirie Scott & Co.

Mrs. Reed reported to the meeting that a new mailing list has been prepared, and the tickets are to be gotten out in Saturday's mail. The list is quite comprehensive and the new system Mrs. Reed has worked out promises smooth running.

From now on until the Fashion show there will be meetings each Wednesday for further planning and perfecting. Next Wednesday the meeting will be held with Mrs. Ryerson, to be followed by a buffet luncheon for the officers, heads of committees and the Outiv Members of the women's board of St. Luke's hospital are proud and delighted over the posters that are to be used to advertise their fashion show Oct. 23 at the Stevens hotel. The poster is the work of Park Phipps, head of the school of design at the Art Institute, and shows a trimly chic young woman in striking relief against a background in which the outlines of the big hotel are dimly set forth. Many of the members of the board who attended the luncheon at Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr's home on Astor street Wednesday, held for the promotion of the Fashion show, viewed the design for the first time, and expressions of satisfaction were general.

Of the eighty-four box-holders who will brings parties to the affair, many of whom will hold luncheons before the tea that is to be a feature of the fashion show, a few names will suffice picked at random from the long list. There are a number of the Armours represented, Mrs. Nelson Barnes, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Miss Anita Blair, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, the Bordens, the Borlands, Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. Harry Clow, Mrs. Charles K. Corsant, George W. Dixon, Mrs. Bernard Eckhardt, Mrs. Noble B. Judah, Mrs. Chauncey Keep, Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. McCormick and Mrs. Rocke-feller McCormick, Mrs. Charles A. Munroe, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. E. L. Ryerson Jr., Mrs. Cufford Rodman, Mrs. Pettit Watson, Mrs. F. W. Upham.

MRS. Schweppe's sister, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, incidentally, is occupying herself with a good many other affairs while Mrs. Schweppe assembles the parts of a new home. She is in charge of the tickets for the St. Luke's Fashion Show, to be held the afternoon and evening of October 23 in the ballroom of the Stevens Hotel, and Mrs. William H. Mitchell is in charge of the boxes, of which fifty-three have already been sold.

M RS. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. is handling the publicity and is evincing her interest in that matter by holding a press luncheon at her Astor st. home next Wednesday. Mrs. Pettit Watson is in charge of the exhibitors' committee, and reports that a number of new displays will be added to the sumptuous collection of last year, which was by the prettiest girls and most stunning matrons in town.

M RS. Reed is sendnig out scores of invitations to the event, all of which will be mailed next week. Tickets may be had at the men's section of one of the downtown department stores.

The most outstanding charitable event that takes place in Chicago every season is the fashion show given by the Woman's Board of St. Luke's Hospital. It is held in the Grand Ballroom of THE STEVENS and outclasses all charitable events in Chicago in the number of distinguished women participating, in the artistic effects and in the financial returns. Possibly no setting in the world would be more adequate than the Ballroom of THE STEVENS for the display of precious jewels, costly furs, wraps and gowns. The crystal hangings, the rose-colored drapes, the wide balcony with its wrought iron railing and the marble facings share equally with the mannequins in the admiration and attention of the guests. This event is scheduled for Tuesday, October twenty-third.

Mrs. William H. Mitchell, box chairman, reported last week that 53 boxes had already been sold for the evening performance and that 21 had been disposed of for the afternoon. Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed is in charge of tickets. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Jr., has charge of publicity, Mrs. John L. Cochran has been made chairman of the cigarette com-

Mrs. Edward Larned Ryerson Jr. will give a luncheon at her home, 1431 Astor street, Wednesday for the heads of the committees in charge of St. Luke's hospital's fashion show, to be held in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel Tuesday afternoon and evening, Oct. 23.

Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy will be cochairman of the tea and dinner arrangements with Mrs. Chauncey Blair Borland, and Mrs. John Lewis Cochran will look after the sale of cigarettes with an able committee of debutantes as her assistants.

Mrs. William H. Mitchell II., who is in charge of the sale of boxes, announces that fifty-three have been sold for the evening and twenty-one for the afternoon revue.

To facilitate the sale of tickets, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, who is ticket chairman, has opened an office in room 1520, Marshall Field's Men's building. Reservations may be made by calling State 8349.

MRS. JOHN W. GARY.

Mrs. Gary of Glencoe, president of the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital, is also a member of the committee assisting Mrs. Upham at the luncheon tomorrow. She is general chairman for the Fashion show to be held Oct. 23.

Meantime, as we are neither airplaning, nor having to fight the wild tribes of Asia and Africa, we can give some time to the fashion show which the Woman's board of St. Luke's hospital is putting on Tuesday, Oct. 23, in the Stevens hotel's biggest and handsomest ballroom. This pillar of polite piffle has had occasion to write up many and many a per-formance designed to entice money for philanthropic purposes from the pockets of the cautious and wealthy, (are the terms synonymous?), but never, no never, has she come across one so ingeniously designed to extract it in large quantities, painlessly and successfully for a fine enterprise. Ford, Rockefeller, Raskob, and all the other, famous money getters might go to school to the women of this board and learn a lot.

These fair ladies get their profits coming and going. The exhibitors pay for everything that is shown, and the people who flock to the show do likewise, and both do it eagerly and handsomely, so that last year the net sum taken in for the social service of St. Luke's hospital on the afternoon and evening devoted to this fashion show was $32,300, which writ out in words is thirty-two thousand and three hundred dollars.

Those who attend the show and have either boxes or tables in the afternoon have tea served for nothing, and in the evening have dinner ditto. Last year the women organizing the affair were much complimented by the men who attended the affair for the very snappy way in which the features followed each other, with no tedious waiting between the various events that composed the program. It was all over by half past ten o'clock, which to the average business man is a great ad-

* * Promises to Be Interesting.

It will be an interesting spectacle, one to make the philosopher ponder on such thoughts as Philip Gibbs' book aroused. You'll see those in cipient hoops, those skirts slowly creeping downward, and many other signs of oncoming misery and trouble, and you will realize, as does this chronicler, how hopeless is the task of any one who tries to hold up or divert the current of fashion.

Those Parisian dressmakers have us by the throats and are going to throttle us if we don't accept a change in fashions. It's a life and death matter to them and for us it's just a question of how we can clothe ourselves to look pleasing and up to date, and at this St. Luke's Fashion Show we'll get the very latest word as to the great art of self-adornment, for shoes, stockings, gloves, veils, jewelry, bags, and all other accompanying features to a modern attire will be on view and worn as they should be.

The young women models trained as carefully as any football player in the right form and the proper way to wear the latest modes. St. Luke Fashion Show yanene Cet. 14

A ND while youth is serving and being served, there is no lack of activity among the more mature. Over sweetbread souffle and peach Melba one day last week, in Mrs. Edward Ryerson's pretty dining room, the woman's board of St. Luke's told us many things about the fashion show which is to take place in the grand ballroom of the Stevens on the 23d.

It is to be practically the same kind of show they had last year, and the fond hope is that they will reach the $40,000 mark.

Probably you remember the crowds packed into that huge ballroom last year to see a couple of dozen of the best looking women in town wearing the very latest in beautiful clothes! Well, that little party netted the committee over $33,000, which went into the charity fund for St. Luke's Hospital Next Swider we see a into A ND while youth is serving and the charity fund for St. Luke's Hospital. Next Sunday we can go into further detail about the fashion show and what it will supply in the snow and what it was way of novelties.

In the meantime, though, whether you've had an invitation from Mrs.

Kersey Coates Reed or not, better make a reservation for a table at the tea early, for there is some talk of having to limit the number of tickets at the end, so as not to pack too many in, to the discomfort of every

Plan for St. Luke's Fashion Show Oct. 23

CERTAINLY "SWEET CHARITY" is getting its innings these days. As one busy lady confided to me yesterday at the luncheon given by Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson at her Astor st. home, in the interests of the St. Luke's Fashion Show, she's getting to have a guilty conscience if she takes a bite at noon without the accompaniment of committee plans and board members' speeches.

HOWEVER, many bites were taken and plans laid at yesterday's gathering, the members of which included Mrs. John Gary, president of the woman's board of St. Luke's auxiliary; Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. William B. Kelley, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, Mrs. Pettit Watson, Mrs. Arthur Bendelari, Anita Blair, Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. and Mrs. Edward J. Cudahy. The Fashion Show, which the board gives as its annual behefit for St. Lukes funds, will take place October 23 at the Stevens Hotel in the afternoon and evening.

THE list of models has been completed and includes both debutantes and young matrons, who will personally display the products of the finest shops in the city. It includes, in the latter class, Mrs. Laurence Wilson, Mrs. Hale Holden Jr., Mrs. John Winterbotham, Mrs. Edson Manierre, Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr., Mrs. Charles Isaacs, Mrs. William R. Odell, Mrs. Fred Peabody, Mrs. William Mitchell, Mrs. Wesley Dixon, Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, Mrs. Loring Coleman and Mrs. Sidney Gardiner.

THE debutantes include Dorothy Ranney, Jean Purcell, Jean Stevens, Mary Elizabeth Johnston, Ellen Borden, Jeanette Peterkin, Betty Warren, Barbara King, Kathleen Whitcomb, Charlotte Picher, Bertha Palmer, Isabel King, Louise Badgerow, Jean MacLeish, Mary Letitia Channon, Mary Fortune and Isabel Greenlee.

TAL.

T'S hardly exaggerating to say that every one who has any claim to social distinction at all in the town is, in some way, interested in this stupendous Fashion Show the Woman's Board of St. Luke's will give on the 23d.

To segin with, every one in the social register as been invited; most of them will buy tickets; some of them are selling advertising for it, others bexes, still others soliciting shops to display their wares. And that's only the half of it!

One of the most interesting details of the show came to light yesterday at Mrs. Edward Ryerson's house up on Astor st. at a luncheon she gave to the board members and those helping her with the publicity. It seems that Mrs. Clifford Rodman, with an eye to beauty and that vague thing called chic, has succeeded in getting the best looking young women of the smart set to model the gowns for the show. Debutantes, of course, for the more youthful things. and the young matrons for the more sophisticated stuff. I notice that Betty Borden, Bertha Palmer, Dorothy Ranny, Jean Stevens, Barbara King, Kath-leen Whitcomb, Jeanette Peterkin, Betty Warren, Charlotte Picher, Isabel Greenlee, Louis Badgerow, Letitia Channon, Jean Purcell, Mary Fortune, Jean MacLeish and Katherine Thorne are in the group, and such ladies of charm and poise as Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, Mrs. Lawrence Williams, Mrs. Laurence O. Wilson, Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr., Mrs. Hale Holden Jr., Mrs. Thomas Cowles, Mrs. Edson Manierre and Mrs. Russell P. Kelley. And another beauty, Mrs. Frederick Peabody, formerly of San Francisco, who has come to live on Astor st. in the past year, will set off to advantage the things that look best on the Spanish type.

The committee on advertising is, perhaps, the busiest at the moment, getting ads for the program. Both Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. and Mrs. Charles Glore are doing this end of the work, and today, bright and early, they are going after the political advertising.

Both Mr. Hoover and Governor Smith may be roperly brought before the Chicago public in their little book—and as Mrs. Faurot brightly says: "Who knows, we may be the cause of swinging the social votes to the better man?"

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. had a meeting and luncheon at her residence, 1431 Astor street, today for members of the committee in charge of St. Luke's Hospital Fashion show, to be given Puecday Oct. 23, afternoon and evening at the Stevens.

Society Mannequins Train for Hospital Benefit on Oct. 23

BY THALIA -

Lists of names aren't particularly interesting reading as a rule, but this roster of the young women who are to model at the St. Luke's benefit fashion show and ball at the Stevens hotel on Oct. 23 is something else again, because the pulchritude and chic of the candidates was considered in their selection, which was none of your hit and miss propositions, if you please.

Many of them wore the gorgeous clothes and jewels displayed at last year's show, which netted its beneficiary something like $33,000, and the ranks of this year's buds have also vielded maids considered good looking and smart enough to do justice to the apparel they will don to be mannequins for a day.

Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman has enlisted the young married women who are to appear, and Miss Barbara King has assisted her by gathering the debutan-Those who will emulate the swagger of the cloak and suit model on the 23d, divided approximately into blondes and brunettes, if you're interested, include Mrs. Lawrence Williams, Mrs. Loring Coleman, who are the only ones with decidedly yellow tresses in the matron group; Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Mrs. Laurence O. Wilson, Mrs. Edson Manierre, Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr., Mrs. Fred Peabody, Mrs. Rodman herself and her sister, Mrs. Russell Kelley, who might be classified as medium; Mrs. Charles W. Isaacs Jr., in a class by herself with auburn locks, and the distinctly dark types, including Mrs. Hale Holden Jr., Mrs. Thomas H. Cowles, Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., and Mrs. Sidney Gardiner. The debutantes include Miss King, Dorothy Ranney, Jean Stevens, Mary Elizabeth Johnston, Betty Borden, Jean Purcell, Jeanette Peterkin, Kath-Whitcomb, Letitia Channon. Charlotte Picher, Bertha Palmer, Mary Fortune, Kathleen Whitcomb, Isabel Greenlee, Louise Badgerow, and also Miss Edwina Litsinger and Miss Katherine Thorne, who made their respective debuts a year or so ago.

Other notes about the preparation for the affair include the news that the board members themselves, who met yesterday during luncheon at the residence of Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., are distributing posters, that Mrs. John Lewis Cochran and Miss Beatrice Borland are to direct a troupe of cigaret girls, that Miss Harriet Borland is to superintend the makeup of the models-that is, the facial adornment, and that no seats or tables may be reserved for the afternoon, as "first come first served" is to be the rule. TRUST THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY OF ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL TO set a fashionable lady's footsteps on the path she should tread, even at the tender age of half past three!

T the St. Luke's Fashion Show benefit, to be given next Tuesday aft-A T the St. Lines rashon shows decided to start their models in young, to say the least. So, preceding the gorgeous array of furs, furbelows, frocks and fancies that will be paraded in front of a battery of hundreds of critical eyes, on the persons of the city's loveliest and best bred ladies, will come seven or eight youngsters released from their nurseries for that occasion only. They will model the tiny youngsters' outfits from the Woman's Exchange, and on their practice trips across a ballroom floor will display as much sang froid as any deb, or even their mothers. Sally Bokum and Barbara Thompson will take the stellar toddler roles. Barbara is the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson and is the granddaughter of Dr. Frank Cary.

M RS. Arthur Reynolds Jr. (Virginia Avery) is appearing in a correct and most becoming riding outfit, and the distribution of sports frocks, afternoon ensembles and evening wraps and gowns will be announced later. The annual pageant of a wedding, with the bride and her attendants robed in the latest word in bridal attire, will, of course, be given. Mrs. Lawrence Williams Jr. is to be the bride, and Dorothy Ranney and Barbara King will be her bridesmaids. Other gowns will he worn by Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, Mrs. John L. Cochran and Mrs. Hale Holden.

Mrs. E. L. Ryerson Jr., energetically working for the fashion show for St. Luke's hospital on Oct. 23 at the Stevens, telephoned yesterday to announce that the feature of such a revue, the bridal procession, has been arranged for through the fashion bureau of a State street store. Mrs. Lawrence Williams will be the svelte and blonde bride, and two of the season's most personable debutantes, Dorothy Ranney and Barbara King, will attend her. Various costumes suitable to a bride's trousseau will be modeled by Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, Mrs. Loring Coleman, Mrs. Hale Holden, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham, and Mrs. C. Edson Manierre.

Frederick F. Norcross, father of two of Lake Forest's popular young materons, Mrs. Richard B. Bentley and Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord, has come into town for the winter and has an apartment at the Ambassador east.

Debutantes in Fashion Show

Three of the North Shore's most popular debutantes, Miss Jean MacLeish, Miss Louise Badgerow and Miss Charlotte Picher, are to take part in the St. Luke's Fashion show on October 23 at the Stevens hotel.

Miss MacLeish, the daughter of the Bruce MacLeishes of Glencoe; Miss Picher, the daughter of Mrs. Oliver S. Picher of Hubbard Woods, and Miss Badgerow, the daughter of the Harve G. Badgerows of Winnetka, are to act as fashion mannequins in the event which is given annually under the auspices of the hospital board.

Mrs. Pettit Watson of Winnetka is a member of the woman's board of St. Luke's auxiliary and is assisting in arrangements for the fashionable affair.

Tribune Cets

From the busy women in charge of the St. Luke's fashion show, which will be staged tomorrow at the Stevens hotel, we learn that 90 exhibitors will display their products. The services of the following smart femmes have been requisitioned as models, in addition to those previously announced: Miss Edith Cummings, Miss Anna Louise Otis, Miss Dorothy Wrenn, Miss Helen Farnum, Miss Florence Noyes, Miss Virginia Vilas, Miss Eleanor McCormick, Miss Louise Tyler, Miss Virginia Dixon, Miss Charlotte Picher, Mrs. Clarence S. Mitchell, Mrs. John H. Halmine, and Mrs. Frederick Peabody. Little Joan Dixon and Joan McArthur will model children's shoes.

A ND, while we're talking of gowns, it might be just as well to suggest right here that no bride should attempt to gather a trousseau until she's seen the one that is to be featured at the St. Luke's fashion show. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson tells me that it is one of the high lights of the show, with pretty Mrs. Lawrence Williams as the bride, and Dorothy Ranney and Barbara King as her bridesmaids. Mrs. Loring Coleman, Mrs. Edson Mannierre, Mrs. John Winterbotham, Mrs. William Mitchell Blair and Mrs. Hale Holden will show the going away ensemble, the dinner gown, the afternoon dress and the ball gown and even—if I may say so—some very grand pajamas. There is some talk, too, of having a well-known young man modeling what the well-dressed man about town will wear, but, so far, there have been no w. k. young men willing to be models.

Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr., with Mrs. . Charles Glore, is in charge of the advertising for the St. Luke's fashion show on Oct. 23, at the Hotel Stevens. Advertising, which at first was slow, is coming in rapidly now, and there is every prospect that a considerable sum will be raised by this means.

That the crop of debutantes is rather diminutive in size, if not in numbers, has been made evident by the St. Luke's fashion show and there has been much grief occasioned by the fact that girls who are to model in most cases are not big enough to fit the clothes the exhibitors wish to display.

This has made many alterations necessary. Going about for fittings, the girls who are to serve as mannequins at the Hotel Stevens, Oct. 23 find their rush augmented by a wild search for the proper shoes, jewels and such like accessories to go with their costumes.

A stunning feature of the exhibition will be a bridal trousseau which one of the State street department stores will offer. Mrs. Lawrence Williams, the former Barbara Kirk, will model for the bride. Dorothy Ranney and Barbara King will have their first taste of how it feels to be dressed in bridesmaids' array, and other glasses of feminine fashion who will model in the trousseau display include Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, Mrs. Loring Coleman, Mrs. Hale Holden, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham and Mrs. Edson Manierre.

Another new feature of the show will be the exhibition of little children's clothes from the Woman's exchange, modeled by children. Sally Bokum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris H. Bokum, will model a girl's dress, and Barbara Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Thompson, and granddaughter of Dr. Frank Cary, a coat. Also for the Woman's exchange, Mrs. John P. Kellogg will "lounge" in "lounging pajamas" and Mrs. Peter Berkey, who was one of the hits of last year, will show how and what to wear in the way of entrancing negligee. Mrs. Arthur Reynolds, who was Virginia Avery, model a riding habit, again something new in the fashion show line.

Some of Chicago's loveliest buds and more stunning young matrons will do the modeling at the fashion show which the Woman's Board of St. Luke's hospital will put on at the Stevens hotel Oct. 23. Misses Bertha Palmer, Dorothy Ranney, Barbara King, Betty Borden, Jean Purcell, Jeannette Peterkin, Kathleen Whitcomb, Charlotte Picher, Mary Fortune, Isabel Greenlee, Louise Bagerow and Marly L. Channon are among the debutantes who will serve as mannequins.

The matrons who will display the finery best suited to their types will include Mesdames William H. Mitchell, H. Pickett Withers, Thomas Cowles, Julius Benedict, Clifford Rodman, William Mitchell Blair, Loring Coleman, Sidney Gardner, Laurence Wilson, Hale Holden Jr., John Winterbotham, Lawrence Williams, Edson Manierre, Harry B. Clow Jr., Charles Isaaca and William Odell Jr., and Russell Kelley.

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., of Astor street, entertained the members of the Woman's Board at luncheon Wednesday, the event bringing together for the first time since the summer outings, in some cases, a goodly group of the women who stand highest in the local world of fashion and of philanthropy.

The luncheon was held to give impetus to keeping before the public the plans of the board concerning the forthcoming fashion show. Mrs. Ryerson's charming salle-a-manger was a festive spot.

Mrs. John W. Gary, who had the seat of honor, as chairman and treasurer of the board, was dressed in a trim suit of gray striped in two shades of the gray. Others present included Mesdames Frank Hibard Pettit Watson, Kersey Coates Reed, Edward I. Cudahy, Chauncey B. Borland, Clifford Rodman, George Ranney, Harold Eldridge, Henry Faurot, Charles Glore, Arthur E. Bendelari and Miss Anita Blair, Miss Blair only recently returned from New Hampshire and is much improved in health

Mrs. Reed, on whose shoulders rests the responsibility for the tickets, reported that the task of sending out the latter had been achieved. But not, it appears, without some grief, for 5,000 of the missives in their accompanying envelopes, all sealed and ready for the mailing were ruined through no fault of the committee and the workers, just as they were about to be sent forth, and had to be done over. It takes more than that, however, to daunt Mrs. Reed and her helpers, who went at their task with redoubled energy, to make up for the accident.

Owing to confusion that attended this detail last year, it has been decided not to reserve tables for the tea feature of the show. Boxes are still available, however, for those who wish to be sure of prompt service and of keeping their parties intact.

Mrs. John Payne Kellogg and Mrs. Peter Berkey are to model lounging pyjamas and negligees and there is to be a special feature of little children's wear sponsored by the Woman's exchange.

Another attractive feature will be the showing of a bridal trousseau, with Mrs. Laurence Williams (Barbara Kirk) as the bride and Miss Dorothy Ranney and Miss Barbara King as the bridesmaids. MRS. EDWIN RYERSON, IN A STUNNING BLACK OUTFIT AND A great rush and hurry, dashed into my office yesterday with the appended list of table reservations, made for the benefit of St. Luke's Fashion Show, to be given next Tuesday afternoon and evening at the Steven". Incidentally, I see the indefatigable board has taken to using bill-boards and large and compelling letters thereon to call the public's attention to the fact that they are giving a really marvelous affair at that time, and all those who have time and the necessary greenback for a ticket should really attend and view it.

MRS. Homer Dixon has bethought herself of a novel way of combining her charitable instincts and her hospitable ones, and is entertaining the entire bridal party for her daughter, Katherine Anne, and Woodberry Agar, at the dinner-dance that precedes the evening's performance. Others who have reserved tables are Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, Mrs. Francis Dickinson, Mrs. George Northrop, Mrs. George Silverthorne, Mrs. Stuart Templeton, Mrs. Van Wagenen Alling, R. H. Edmonds and Albert Wedekstaedt.

The Chaperon

Mr. and Mrs. George N. Silverthorne of Riverside are joining in the trend of travel cityward for the winter. Customarily they are year-round dwellers in the western suburb. This autumn their youngest son has entered the Harris school in Chicago, and they are making the move partly because the trip back and forth would be irksome after cold weather sets in. They are waiting, however, until the middle of November.

The date for the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Goddard to their son, John, has been set for Nov. 10 and they wish to defer the ordeal of moving until after that event. In the mean time Mrs. Silverthorne is among those who have reserved tables for the St. Luke's Fashion show dinner that will follow the afternoon style exhibition at the Stevens, Oct. 23. She has not yet made up her party.

Mrs. Homer L. Dixon is another who has taken a table for a company of twenty-two, the guests to be the bridal party of her daughter, Miss Katharine Dixon and A. Woodbury S. Agar Jr., whose wedding will be an event of Oct. 27. Others who have made reservations include Mesdames William Mitchell Blair who will have a party of four, and Mesdames Francis Dickinson, George Northrop, Stuart Templeton, Van Wagenen Alling, N. R. Of all the novelties, naming one's fox fur is the latest conceit.

At the luncheon Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. gave a few days ago for the committee in charge of St. Luke's fashion show, Harriet Borland told of the fad among the society girls. Miss Borland calls her fur neck piece Magnolia because it is so dark, and Winifred Smith's is called Wheezer. Just why Miss Borland did not say.

Another society girl who has a double fox scarf calls it Toots and Casper, and still another has named hers Whoopee.

Apparently these girls are quite as much in earnest as the young man who flies between Chicago and his southern home and has the pet name of each of his eight motor cars engraved on silver plates over their respective stalls.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Laing Dixon are among those who have made reservations for St. Luxe's dinner and fashion revue next Tuesday evening at the Stevens hotel. They will en-tertain in honor of their daughter, Miss Katharine Anne Dixon, her fiance, Woodbury Stearns Agar, and their bridal party.

With the Service club revue gone out in its blaze of glory, hail the forthcoming style show that the St. Luke's ladies are putting on Tuesday at the Stevens!

It looks as though the entire world of fashion would be turning out for the event, which is both in the afternoon and evening, and many are the box parties planned to view the show, the members to dine there. Mrs. John J. Mitchell's party will include Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. T. Thompson, whose small daughter, Barbara, is modeling; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wrigley and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Coonley.

In Mrs. Frank O. Lowden's party are to be Messrs. and Mesdames Albert F. Madlener, Jr., John B. Drake, Jr., and William Drake. Mrs. Clifford Rodman has conceived the idea of a "husbands' box" for the men whose wives are serving as mannequins, and Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed has invited to be with her Mr. and Mrs. Henry Faurot, Jr., and Charles Schweppe.

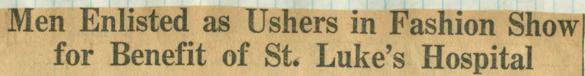

The Henry A. Blairs have two boxes, Mrs. Blair presiding as hostess in one while Miss Anita Blair will divide her time between doing the honors in the other and helping in the dressing room, where Mrs. George Ranney, Miss Emily Otis and Miss Harriet Borland are also to lend a hand.

Mrs. Blair's guests will include Mesdames Joseph Adams, Neil Bradley, Watson Armour, Hayden Harris and Harold Smith. Miss Blair wi'l have in her party Misses Helen Gurley, Margaret Conover, Mrs. Eugene Talbot, Mrs. Frank Doherty and Mrs. Howard V. O'Brien.

Added to the list of models for the show, heretofore published, are Misses Edith Cummings, Glee Louise Viles, Anna Louise Otis, Dorothy Wrenn, Helen Farnum, Florence Noyes, Louise Tyler, Virginia Vilas, Eleanor McCormick, Virginia Dixon, Charlotte Picher, Mrs. Clarence Mitchell, Mrs. John H. Hamline, Mrs. Frederick Peabody, Mrs. William H. Mitchell and little Joan Dixon and Joan McArthur.

The leading Paris houses will be represented with exhibits at the show. Many local shops are designing their own models.

So, when one-half of society assembles tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Stevens to view the other half parading priceless frocks in the St. Luke's Fashion Show they will be met by a truly astounding sight. In place of the usual smiling deb brigade of ushers, the guests will be shown to their boxes by a most distinguished list of "husbands." Dr. Ryerson has had the citating job of assembling that list

POR the benefit of those who are apt to linger over luncheon today, it might be just as well to pass on the suggestion that an early arrival at the ballroom of the Stevens Hotel would be the wise thing to manage. Otherwise, you may be sure the choice tea tables for the Fashion Show, to be given by the women of the board of St. Luke's Hospital will all be taken. It's to be "first come first served" and "you pays your money and you takes your choice" of vantage points.

Inasmuch as everyone of any prominence whatever in the town is either in the style show, on the committee giving it, or buying tickets for it, the importance of the occasion, socially, not to mention sartorially, is obvious.

The second performance—at the dinner-dance tonight—is to be quite a party, so that all the "husbands" and beaux of the mannequins may have the opportunity to see their ladies modeling.

Plans are going apace for the Fashion Show given by the Woman's Board of the St. Luke's Hospital in the Grand Ballroom of The Stevens, October twenty-third. The most striking young maids and matrons of Chicago's society have been selected as mannequins for the display of costly jewels, wraps, gowns, foot gear and millinery. The colored lights reflected from the crystal chandeliers, the lace pattern in the ceiling, the Fragonard paintings in the niches over the windows and the rose drapes are a few of the beauty spots of the Grand Ballroom that will make it a fitting background for the lovely display. It is interesting to note that this affair held in The Stevens last year netted the hospital $33,000.

Mrs. William H. Mitchell is box chairman. Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed is in charge of tickets. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson has charge of publicity. Mrs. John L. Cochran is chairman of the cigarette committee. Mrs. E. I. Cudahy and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland are in charge of the tea and dinner.

Among the young women who will appear in the fashion parade are Mrs. Lawrence Williams, Mrs. Loring Coleman, Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham, Jr., Mrs. Fred Peabody, Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman, Mrs. Russell Kelley, Mrs. Charles W. Isaacs, Jr., Mrs. Hale Holden, Jr., Mrs. Thomas H. Cowles, Mrs. William R. Society is interested today in the fashion show, tea and dinner being held at the Stevens under the ausspices of the woman's board of St Luke's hospital.

Among the society women who have been working for the success of the affair are Mrs. John W. Gary, general chairman; Mrs. Hathaway Watson and Mrs. Frank Hibbard, chairman of the fashion show; Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore in charge of advertising and programs; Mrs. William H. Mitchell, box chairman; Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, ticket chairman; Mrs. Clifford Rodman in charge of the manikins; Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland and Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, tea and dinner chairman; Mrs. Harold Eldridge and Mrs. George A. Ranney, in charge of properties; Mrs. Arthur E. Bendelari. flower chairman, and Mrs. Edward L. Society maids and matrons are modeling the gowns, hats, shoes, wraps and jewelry from the leading stores and shops, there being ninety exhibitors in all.

Mrs. Frederick Peabody, who will model tomoorrow at the fashion show given by the woman's board of St. Luke's is wearing a smart suit that reflects this geometric mood.

The ensemble of mouse gray velvet The ensemble of mouse gray velvet is cut entirely on the bias, so the diagonal line is the distinctive feature. The surplice closing also accents this line. The skirt is interesting for a tuck (which is really an upside down tuck) that continues the diagonal line of the coal. Opossum, which trims the collar and cuffs, is an effective combination with the mouse gray. Creps of a gray tone mouse gray. Crepe of a gray tone that is nearly an off-white shade forms the blouse, which has a collar that extends down the front in a rippling jabot.

MRS. PEABODY wears a small felt hat with this costume. The brim turns back very close at the front, much in the manner of that new model, the fisherman's hat.

Bechoff, a French designer, has made a daring use of geometric lines in a tweed coat which is striped in gray and blue. There is no rhyme nor reason to the stripes, which vary in width and follow a diagonal line on one side of the coat and a horion one side of the coat and a horizontal line on the other. It is effective, as it is done cleverly enough to escape being bizarre.

Society Women as Mannequins Aid Hospital

Fashion Pageant Is Given for St. Luke's.

BY ROBERTA NANGLE.

The annual St. Luke's fashion show, devised by society women to help that hospital, attracted an audience yesterday afternoon and evening which filled the Stevens hotel ballroom to capacity. The proceeds are expected to top the $33,000 of last

From a stage curtained in blue velvet, with a background of silver cloth, society girls and matrons proceeded down a runway which extended almost the entire length of the room. If Aladdin's lamp had been rubbed the genii could have produced no more exquisite bits of feminine apparel than were exhibited. Gowns, wraps, negligees, jewelry, millinery, and accessories from 90 concerns were included.

The hit of the revue, perhaps, was a bridal procession in which the blonde and lovely Mrs. Lawrence Williams wore a white satin and lace dress with flowing train and long lace veil, and Miss Barbara King and Dorothy Ranney wore bridesmaids' frocks of flesh colore's satin trimmed with sable.

Another chic group included Mrs. William Mitchell Blair in a black velvet evening dress and a wrap of seal and summer ermine; Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., in a swanky coat of black caracul, with flaring skirt made in the Cossack fashion and a matching hat; Mrs. Cyrus Edson Manierre in a smart tailleur of black broadcloth and iamb's wool; Mrs. Loring Coleman in a gold metal cloth evening dress, and Miss Mary Meeker in a striped brownish tweed ensemble. Mrs. William H. Mitchell appeared twice, first in a white satin evening dress and ermine wrap and later in a dress of black velvet and tulle with matching wrap, collared in ermine.

Culled from the ranks of the debutantes were Miss Betty Borden, Miss Letitia Channon, Miss Jeanette Peterkin, Miss Eleanor McCormick, Miss Kathleen Whitcomb, Miss Isabel Greenlee, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Johnston. Betty Borden was warmly applauded in the early part of the show when she strolled down the runway in an ensemble of black cloth and ermine with a Pekingese dog tucked under one arm. Miss Jane Rowe had with her another canine attraction in a Russian wolfhound that strutted by her side.

Other models included Mrs. Russell Kelley, whose blonde beauty was enhanced by a green velvet gown and wrap, and who was followed by her dark haired sister, Mrs. Clifford Rodman, in a gold cloth dress; Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr., Miss Roberta Harvey, Mrs. Lawrence Wilson, Miss Glee Louise Viles, and Miss Anita Blair, who modeled footwear; Mrs. Clifford Templeton, Mrs. Valentine Bartlett, Mrs. Charles Edward Brown Jr., Mrs. Lloyd Laflin, Miss Florence Noyes, Mrs. Albert Brunker, and Mrs. Clarence Mitchell.

The evening performance, to which many of the boxholders brought groups of guests for dinner, was followed by a dance.

I'VE ALWAYS MAINTAINED—AS HAVE MANY others infinitely more capable of making such declarations—that the way to get things done "right" is to have the right people do them.

A ND isn't it true? I never saw it better-exemplified than yesterday, when the committee of indefatigable workers in behalf of St. Luke's Hospital put over their Fashion Revue with such marked success at the Hotel Stevens.

SUCCESSFUL as to the display of gorgeous frocks, wraps and their feminine wearers—young matrons and maids of Chicago's smartest set—and the "gate receipts" which it is expected will be approximately $30,000.

LISTENING in" on several men, who ventured to take a look in at the fair models and who were summing up the situation, one fairly gasped, "I see now why my wife hasn't been in a hurry to get her Winter wardrobe. Lucky me that I have but one wife, isn't It?" "Yes," drawled another, "I know why my wife was dead set on coming here."

O doubt about it, but that parade of costly wraps, gowns, hats and slippers, to say nothing of the precious gems that held the rapt attention of hundreds of women during the afternoon and evening will elicit more than one groan from the heads of households by the time the first of the month rolls 'round.

NOT in stage, shop or other society benefit have I seen a loveller coterie of strikingly beautiful women. For instance, there were the two Field sisters, Katherine, now Mrs. Clifford Rodman, and Mrs. Russell Kelley, who was Daphne Field, who were simply stunning in their colorful evening gowns.

B LUE-eyed Anita Blair, one of the most faithful of the hospital "crew" of society workers, slipped in to the gap at the eleventh hour as a substitute in face of the difficulties she encountered in getting a pair of slippers to fit her tiny feet. She made a handsome picture in a white crepe street dress with black trimmings and hat to match.

THERE was a flurry of excitement when pretty Cecille Murphy Benedict appeared in a red white gold embroidered Chinese blouse and black satin skirt. Beatrice Clow, one of the season's liveliest debutantes, was a lovely complement in her black taffeta period frock starred in crystals, for Isabel Greenlee in her white tulle embroidered in gold beads, whom she passed on the runway.

Jane Rowe Is Smart

in Outfit for Street Wear

JANE Rowe, in a smart street outfit, with her handsome leashed wolf-hound at her side, was another attraction. Pretty Edwina Litsinger, in the stunning brown fur coat she wore with a matching felt hat, reminded one that Old Man Winter is near. The three handsome Granger girls, Mrs. William Mitchell Blair (Martha), Mrs. Charles E. Brown Jr. (Elizabeth) and Mrs. Thomas Cowles (Barbara), were among the other comely models.

LOUISE Juergens' black velvet gown was enhanced by the dozens of diamond and emerald bracelets. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson heaved a sigh of relief, as her "job" of publicity manager entailed more than she had reckoned with. Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and Mrs. Chauncey Borland and Mrs. John W. Gary, the doughty president, were all happy over the prospects of the show's unrivalled success.

A MONG the many I observed were Mrs. Edwin Warner Ryerson and her mother, Mrs. David Hamilton; Mrs. Moses Wentworth, Mrs. Harry Pratt Judson, Mrs. Edwin Ashcraft, Mrs. Richard Folsom, Mrs. George Van Hagen Jr., Mrs. Potter Smith, Mrs. Ira Couch, Mrs. Arthur Benedlari, Mrs. Henry Gross, Mrs. Huster Meyer, Mrs. Watson Armour, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Mrs. E. J. Senn, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mrs. James Hutchins, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, Mrs. William B. Greenlee, Mrs. Clyde Stevens, Mrs. Mark Willing, Mrs. Philip Wrigley, Mrs. Louis E. Lafin, Mrs. Harry B. Clow, Mrs. William Gardner and daughter, Mary; Mrs. Bernard Eckhart, Mrs. Homer Dixon, Mrs. Paul Walker, Mrs. Charles Conrad, Mrs. Charles Schweppe, Mrs. John R. Thompson Jr. and Mrs. Frank Walls.

Feminine Hearts Go Out to Exquisite Finery at St. Luke's Fashion Show

"Hold Tickets" Placed on Samples by Models Indicate Brisk Trade for Exhibitors

ON PARADE

THERE'S only one sad aftermath of yes-I terday's highly successful goings-on over in the Stevens Hotel ballroom. All the "models" at the Fashion Show looked so well in the things they modeled for the show that most of them have "hold tickets" on them, and are now laying siege to their masculine relatives, with the "papa-buy-me-that" tactics in full use.

But, dear me! I hope Mrs. Arthur Reynolds and Dorothy Rend didn't set their young hearts on the king's ransom in jewels with which they fluttered down the long runway. And how dreadful if Mrs. Clifford Templeton and Mrs. Hale Holden Jr. make demands for those exquisite ermine coats! Or, if Edwina Litsinger should decide she must have those Anyhow, as the "average woman." I can whisper to all the exhibitors that, whatever they paid to have all these handsome women model their things, it was worth it. In every female heart the wish to own at least one of the lovely things-or a copy-was born. Trade on Michigan av. and State st. should be brisk this week.

Whatever the benefit to every one else, St. Luke's Hospital will be the better by a good many thousands and the women of the board have the satisfaction of knowing that they gave such a good show that hardly any one drank any tea!

TOUCHING lightly on some of the outstanding things of the show:

Florence Noyes, in emerald velvet with emeralds and diamonds—the perfect notes in the red hair chorus-was much applauded; Mrs. Billy Mitchell, in both lovely things she showed, was, too; her young sister Barbara-one of the bridesmaids-again was a Boutet de Monvel illustration; the three Granger girls-Mrs. Thomas Cowles, Mrs. William Mitchell Blair and Mrs. Charles Edward Brown Jr.: the two Fields-Mrs. Clifford Rodman and Mrs. Russell Kelley; the two Cottons, Mrs. Hale Holden and Mrs. Phelps Kelley and the two Robbins, Mrs. Charles W. Isaacs and Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., to say nothing of the three Kings-Mrs. Billy Mitchell, Mrs. Clarence Mitchell and the debutante. Barbara-were included in the "sister acts," all supplying the lovely, lithe figures that the modern gowns require, each a different type of modernity.

Mrs. Edson Manierre, in a black suit with a little muff of caracul, was Parisian to the last touch, and both Betty Borden, in her own black suit with the ermine trimmings and carrying her Pekingese dog, and Jane Rowe, in her "walk-the-dog" costume of black and white, leading her Russian wolf hound, were immediate successes. As blondes go there were no lovelier ones on the runway than Mrs. Peter Berkey and Mrs. Irving Kosche.

Mrs. Russell Kelley wore one of the most striking evening wraps—a sea foam green velvet with a soft, gray fox collar. Mrs. Julius T. Benedict, who is the perfect mannequin, wore an afternoon dress in black and white with an elaborate gold thread trimming. And there was Mrs. Larry Williams, a truly bewitching bride, with the youthful and lovely Dorothy Ranney as one of the bridesmaids.

Mrs. John Kellogg and Mrs. Loring Coleman modeled handsome gold cloth gowns-the former an afternoon costume and Mrs. Coleman an evening gown, the exact shade of her shingled hair.

A MONG the younger girls who kept perfect time to the music walking down the long runway were Mary Meeker, in a tan sports outfit trimmed in beaver; Sarane Otis, in a sapphire blue taffeta evening gown; Roberta Harvey, who was primarily a shoe model, wearing an American Beauty taffeta gown; Eleanor McCormick, in a rose and silver brocade gown; Charlotte Picher, in a silver mesh dress, coat and hat, all made of the same material; Jeanette Peterkin, in a green figured chiffon; Virginia Skinkle, very striking in a black caracul coat with a matching muff, and Elizabeth Drake, wearing the latest thing in riding togs.

T CAN'T resist a remark on the entirely motherly 1 and self-forgetting way Mrs. Hamilton McCormick arose to an awkward moment at the show. Little Sally Bokum and Barbara Thompson were models for the Women's Exchange, and, at the end of the runway, they were supposed to take off their little coats and show their dresses.

Little Sally's coat button just wouldn't come undone. The band played and every one waited and Sally looked back to where she'd emerged from, wondering what she was going to do. No one moved -not one of a hundred ladies close at hand.

Then, from several tables down the room, came good, solid, sensible Mrs. McCormick, with her spectacles set at a firm angle on her good nose. The spotlight played on her, but she reached up and deftly unbuttoned the little girl's coat and went back to her tea.

Rule Britannia! It's a proof that the English are less self-conscious than the Yanks.

Mrs. William R. Odell Jr. was the first to appear as model at the fashion show yesterday. Her costume of green satin with coat collar of chinchilla and gray hat were especially becoming. All the models following wore "the last word" in hats, gowns, wraps, shoes and jewels.

Mrs. T. J. Benedict was one of several who purchased the gown she wore. White crepe blouse with flame, and bands of gold embroidered cuffs extending to the elbow; the same design being used to form a hem. The skirt which extended about three inches below the blouse was of black crepe. She was one of the "perfect models."

Others who were especially attractive were Mrs. William H. Mitchell and her sisters, Mrs. Clarence Mitchell and Miss Barbara King; Mrs. William Mitchell Blair and her sister, Mrs. Thomas Cowles; Mrs. Clifford Rodman and her sister, Mrs. Phelps Kelley; Miss Beatrice Clow, Miss Marcia Masters, Miss Virginia Dixon, Miss Edith Cummings, Mrs. John Hamline Jr., Miss Dorothy Rend, Mrs. Arthur Reynolds Jr., Miss Glee Louise Viles, Mrs. Lawrence Williams, Miss Dorothy Ranney, Miss Sarane Otis (president of the Junior league), Mrs. Loring Coleman, Mrs. Hale Holden Jr., Miss Mary Meeker, Miss Roberta Harvey, Miss Edwina Litsinger, Miss Jane Rowe, Miss Eleanor McCormick, Mrs. John Winterbotham Jr. (one of the smartest dressers in town), Miss Isabel Greenlee, Mrs. George Mc-Laughlin, Mrs. John V. Farwell 3d, Miss Anna Louise Curtis, Miss Katherine Thorne and, one of the most adorable, Miss Betty Borden, who wore black frock, coat and hat with narrow bands of ermine and carried her Pekingese dog.

The woman's board of St. Luke's hospital, of which Mrs. John Gary is president, derived all the profits.

Models for Charity

Miss Dorothy Rend, the youngest of the three popular daughters of the Joseph P. Rends, is to assist as a model at the St. Luke's fashion show, to be held this afternoon and evening at the Stevens Hotel.

ESTERDAY was a red letter day in fashiondom. The newest and most bewitching Parisian creations were paraded before our eyes at the Fashion Show given by the Woman's Board of St. Luke's modeled by winsome debutantes and charming young society matrons.

Your Lucky Hour

The time given is Central Standard.
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24.
TENTH DAY of the moon. This should be a very fortunate day for

Not in one shorts column could I even mention all the smart costumes in this panorama of fashions. So I have jotted down a few that show the trend of the mode.

The ensemble characterized both the daytime and evening costume, although it showed greater imagination and ingenuity than the matching mode of last season.

MRS. WILLIAM MITCHELL BLAIR wore an evening gown that was interesting for the combination of pleated tulle and chiffon velvet, and for the long, dipping tulle panel at the back. A wrap of chinchilla was levely with this purple

Another distinguished evening ensemble was worn by Mrs. Hale Holden Jr. The dress, a Goupy model, with long, slinky lines, was fashioned of white satin with a skirt of imported silver lace. The silhouette was particularly new and modish.

The coat posed over this gown was a most delightful wrap of white ermine, with a little scarf of fur and an amusing cape over one shoulder.

MRS. JOHN WINTERBOTHAM modeled a daytime ensemble that was distinctive and indicative of the importance of fur in the mode. The coat of black caracul had a suggestion of princesse lines and cavalier cuffs. A snug little fur turban matched the coat, as did the belt of the green frock worn with the ensemble.

HOUSE frocks can be attractive and unusual. For my free sketches, which you will find easy to follow, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE GAD-BOUT.

Blondes and Velvets Reign at St. Luke's Fashion Show

Who says that blondes are getting a gasp of admiration. scarce? Certainly not one of the 3,500 to 4,000 who viewed the second annual style show put on by the Woman's Board of St. Luke's hospital in the grand ball room of the Stevens Hotel at the two performances of that delectable spectacle.

For it did seem as though two-thirds of the mannequins were blondes. Not of doubtful coloring, but the genuinely golden-haired, lily-fair variety, the burnished loveliness of whose crowns of glory fairly lit the spaces in which the owners floated, or seemed to float, did one but take the trouble to half close one's eyes, and allow imagination a bit of play.

Of course there were some dozens (or so it seemed, though some of the models were "repeaters") of the lucious, sloe-eyed, dark-haired beauties, and now and then a representative of the frankly auriferous type; and lovely ladies with nut-brown and near nut-brown tresses in every shade of variation. But blondes, blondes, blondes! until the eyes were dazzled by the pink and white and gold of Every woman's dream of beauty in cress was realized, and man's of loveliness in face and form. Sports clothes, tailleurs, afternoon gowns, evening frocks, sables, ermines, worth a king's ransom, priceless fabrics fashioned by artist minds and magic-working fingers into divine creations, went by in endless procession. And there seems to be no question but that velvet is the fabric of the hour.

The show opened with blare of trumpets, as the curtains parted, and two small negro announcers in a glory of red satin pantaloons, green turbans and blue zuave jackets, descended like automatons and flashed in roster signs the name of the first exhibitor.

Spontaneous applause greeted the graceful presence of Mrs. William Odell, the first to trip down the stairway and onto the long platform that ran between massed "boxes" arranged with tiny tea tables, about which the spectators were grouped.

Marcia Masters, magnificent in black and gold with flowing draperies and a long strand of pearls about her neck, followed quickly, and from then on it was one continuous line of Chicago's most fashionable and fairest womanhood, each one the loveliest of all. When Beatrice Clow threw off her white velvet wrap and revealed a black taffeta robe with immense star of brilliants embroidered on the side of the tight fitting bodice, there was a gasp of admiration and the applause was genuine and spontaneous.

Edith Cummings, all in beige, her coat finished with fox fur collar of the same tone, was followed by Joan Rodman in rose pink chiffon evening lari, Mrs. Chauncey Blair Borland.

Benedict, incomparable in her white tunic with its broad edging of deep crange, heavily encrusted with gold embroidery; Mary Channon in electric blue; Mrs. Charles W. Isaacs in lace shading from pale gold to golden bois de rose, under a henna wrap with deep kolinski collar; Dorothy Rend in black velvet evening gown, the skirt with fanshapped ruffled back, all won the admiration of the throng.

Fair as a lily glimmered Mrs. Reynolds in her black velvet frock. Mrs. Frederick Peabody glistened in white draperies with brilliants put on in an effective design; Mrs. Albert Brunker in pale peach; Janice Mc-Near, another dazzling blonde in black taffeta and tulle, with silver headdress; Susan Russell modeling a snappy riding suit; Katherine Drake, ditto, with a mannish hat that became her well; Mrs. Phelps Kelley all in slate gray cloth and fur, from head to foot; Mrs. Russell Kelley in a beautiful wrap of pale green velvet with white fox collar; Little Betty Borden in black coat with white ermine cellar and black felt hat carrying her Pekingese spaniel under her arm (the bow-wow seemed petrified); Mrs. Harry Clow, her golden bob gleaming over peach colored chiffon; Sarane Otis never more beautiful than in a swathing wrap of pale green velvet; Mrs. William H. Mitchell modeling an ermine coat with silver fox collar; Jane Rowe in chic sports costume of black and white and leading a magnificent black and white wolfhound; Roberta Harvey in brilliant rose taffeta with fuchsia velvet bow at the

SOCIETY NOTES

A large sum was realized by the voman's board of St. Luke's hospital from its fashion show, tea and dinner held yesterday and last evening at the Stevens. It is expected that the proceeds will reach the $33,000 mark of last year's affair.

Society maids and matrons promenaded in elaborate gowns, wraps, shoes and jewels just like professional models. Betty Borden in an attractive black cloth and ermine ensemb! with her little Pekingese and Jane Rowe in a sport suit of black, the jacket of black and white check, with her Russian wolfhound received much applause.

By THE DOWAGER.

OU'D almost think, to hear the talk in smart circles these days, that St. Luke were the patron saint of fashions!

And it would hardly surprise you to find stitched to a Lanvin label in a gown a St. Luke medallion, something in the same pious spirit as the St. Christopher placques the much traveled place on the dash boards of their automobiles (Mrs. Waller Borden has a lovely one from Italy, where blessed St. Christopher is venerated as the patron of travel). And still the sainted Luke, who advised and abjured against vanity, would probably not wish to be the patron for anything so worldly as style.

Anyhow, with a fashion show named for him and in the name of the charity that is perpetuated through the results of that Fashion Show, to all intents and purposes St. Luke graciously lends his patronage, and we can forget that it was he who wrote: "Take no thought for the body, what ye shall put on; Life is more than food, and the body is more than raiment."

The way it looks now the fashion show will bring out a crowd Tuesday that will fill the Stevens Hotel ballroom, and it will be fashionable in more than the general sense. Fashionable ladies are giving the affair, more fashionables are modeling;

And on all these facts the ladies And on all these facts the ladies of the woman's board of St. Luke's Hospital will capitalize. They struck the charity bonanza of the Fall last year, taking in close to $35,000 with the same kind of party. They hope to do even better this year. The chances are they will.

Thousands Coming In

M S. WILLIAM MITCHELL, by dint of constant application all through the Summer and keeping herself glued to the telephone for several weeks this Fall, will bring in a good many thousands from the sale of the boxes for the afternoon tea and the evening dinner party. Mrs. Clifford Rodman, Mrs. Frank Hibbard and Mrs. Petit Watson will get several more thousands from the shops that pay for the privilege of showing their gowns before so critical and spending an audience. Mrs. Charles E. Glore and Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. have sold so much advertising for the program as to have put them in the class of high pressure advertising salesmen, and they will bring in several more thousands. will bring in several more thousands.

Revenue from the tickets will be no small consideration, and Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed has taken an office downtown, where every morn-ing she stacks high the checks that come in as acceptances of the invi-

At the door of the ballroom Tuesday still more tickets will be sold, and there is still something more to and there is still something more to be made at the evening party, when Mrs. John J. Jelke Jr. produces some prizes to be contested for and the cigaret girls get in their deli-cate Jesse James work.

Gay and Spritely Affair

MRS. JOHN W. GARY, president of the board and its treasurer, too, is to be congratulated on such aggressive helpers. They make of aggressive helpers. They make of this party a very gay and spritely affair. Appealing to every woman in town—her desire to see what is being worn, furthered by a hope that she, too, may wear a copy of it—they get her to buy a ticket for $3.50 as an investment in personality.

The gentlemen go, it is supposed, to see the pretty girls wearing pretty clothes, to lend their financial support and to prepare for the worst a little later on when their ladies go forth to invest in the gowns they saw advertised.

Some of the highlights of the show will be the bridal party, setting forth exactly what a modern bride needs for a trousseau. Her bridal gown will be worn by one of the prettiest blondes in town, Mrs. Larry Williams. A "mother and daughter" exhibit is to be another feature, showing a very young mother, with her youthful debuante daughter, wearing the suitable afternoon ensemble. Even the young child's clothes will be modeled by a half dozen little third generation Chicagoans, and so on. Mrs. John Kellogg has promised to model some very handsome lounging pajamas; the glamorous Mrs. Mitcheil Blair will wear a tea gown that will make your mouth water, and such vivacious young things as Mrs. Hale Holden Jr. and Mrs. Edson Manierre (Carter H. Chings Sunday trit. Out 28

Mrs. Clifford Templeton, Mrs. Loring W. Coleman, and Mrs. William Mitchll Blair found time to pose for the above pictures "between the acts of the St." Luke's fashion show in which they appeared as mannequins last Tuesday. Mrs.

Templeton were a white satin evening gown and ermine wrap, Mrs. Coleman a gold cloth evening costume, and Mrs. Blair a wrap of seal and ombred ermine over a dress of black velvet and tulle.

Miss Mary Barnes and her fiance, Louis C. Sudler, were caught unawares by the photographer's flashlights on their way to the recent Service club revue. Their weeding is to be an event of February.

CHICAGO was distinguishably represented at the fashion show that enriched the year's treasury of St. Luke's hospital social service board. Again Mrs. John Gary gained the guerdon of captaining a worthy cause through a maze of alms-beseeching crusades to a triumphant finale.

M ARGUERITE PETTIT WATSON'S mise-en-scène would have pleased Morris Gest. Silver lamé curtains melted into the crystal-chandeliered pastel-frescoed ballroom at the Stevens Hotel. A pair of slim near-Zanzibarians played the guards with Bakst precision. So much soap, so much silk, so much chiffon never had dared before enter into the hands of the alley arabs. High enough the runway for even the most near-sighted of dowagers actually to see the gay parade. A pair of dogs; Betty Borden's "peke," and a Borzoi recruited from the wide, wide spaces by Ellen Borden, mère,—gave what the critics of the drama term "Verve" and "Cliche."

C HOWY, shining, and sparklingly scintillant Florence Noves in white played "show horse" for a large jewelry shop. Fourteen diamond and emerald bracelets on one wrist; eighteen ditto on the other, necklaces, pendants, and earrings, revived hope that possibly the entire market has not been cornered by Ganna Walska, Edith Mc-Cormick, et al. Another brilliant mannequin was the Carter Harrison's daughter, Mrs. Edson Manierre, who in unborn lamb, black broadcloth, a beret, and suede pumps with her gray gloves, a second high light for her exquisite pallor, was one of the most exquisitely turned out,

A NITA BLAIR "pinch-hit" for a shoe mannequin who failed, and did it without time to add a feather or a frill. In her simple white frock, black hat and almost infinitesimal feet, Anita walked with her pretty face quite free from any consciousness of guilt, such as must have caused the pained lines in the faces of several girls, for more than one valuable model loaned for the show most drastically met its Waterloo in the two sessions, night and evening.

A N interested spectator who left early, and so, very nicely, let every-body have an appraising glance at her bottle green cloth and squirrel tailleur was Mrs. Charles B. Pike. Some one of the Alger clan was with her, young, piquante and in exquisite soft raspberry cloth. Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth, stunning as ever in a dark gown with a twist of jade and gold in her turban, was as usual a regal Roman matron. Mrs. Harry Pratt Judson was with her bonne aime: and Elsa Armour, rosier and a bit more rotund but also an evidence of the charm of the perfectly attired, perfectly groomed American. was busy hearing "Au revoir," as Elsa sailed Friday for France.

M RS. EDWIN WARNER RYERSON had a group of guests in honor of her mother, Mrs. D. G. Mitchell, and Natalie Blair Bradley and Mrs. Harry Higginbotham were all together. Lolita Mitchell in black velvet was busied about a dozen details, but all three of her sisters-in-law, Ginevra and Marjorie Mitchell, and Louise Kellogg were mannequins. Barbara King was the bridesmaid with Dorothy Ranney for Barbara Williams bride with Barbara in a splendor of movenage such as would almost have paid the entire expense of her own simple yet charming wedding, Mrs. Ogden Armour was not there. Mrs. Stanley Field and Mrs. Charles Munroe were but whisking by, with Grace evidently too full of Smith for aught else. and Rhea naturally enough excited about Josephine's trousseau. She did not, however, pay especial attention to the bridal parade, pretty as it was with the two maids in flesh charmeuse and sable.
